

TMHA Announces Truck Fleet Safety Contest Earners at 2022 Fall Conference

The Machinery Haulers Association, Inc. saw a record number of its members and guests descend on the Grand Geneva Resort & Spa at Lake Geneva, WI for its annual Fall Conference September 7-9. The first official order of business was the announcement and presentation of the coveted TMHA Truck Fleet Safety Contest awards based on 2021's performance data. TMHA's award program is sponsored by HNI Risk Services and is significant because it has near 100% participation by the Association's motor carrier members, the contest takes into consideration metrics not usually measured in other contests, and TMHA motor carrier members are some of the safest operating carriers on the road today. TMHA always calls the recipients of these awards, award earners, not award winners, as these important awards are indeed earned by the receiving carriers, not just won.

Diamond Transportation System, Inc. (Racine, WI), earned the Small Fleet Division (under 5 million miles) award. Jon Coca, Diamond's president, received the award on Diamond's behalf. Diamond is no stranger to earning safety awards as this was the second consecutive year it has earned the award. Pictured are Coca (2nd from left) with Lance Votroubek, TMHA Chairman (Warren Transport, Inc.); John Simms, HNI Risk Services; and John Joines, Great West Casualty Company. Congratulations to Jon Coca and to the safety-minded team at Diamond Transportation System, Inc.

Warren Transport, Inc. (Waterloo, IA), earned the Large Fleet Division (over 5 million miles) award. Lance Votroubek, Warren's Vice President of Vans Division, accepted the award on Warren's behalf. Warren has earned a total of four awards in TMHA's contest. Pictured are Votroubek (center), with Joines and Simms. Congratulations to Lance Votroubek and to all the safety-conscious folks at Warren Transport, Inc.

Mercer Transportation Company (Louisville, KY) earned the Most Improved Carrier award for 2021. Improvement of a carrier's safety performance is a hallmark of the TMHA contest and for Mercer to achieve the highest degree of improvement, on their previous noteworthy performance, is worthy of award-earning recognition indeed. Accepting the award on Mercer's behalf was Todd Felty (2nd from left), Mercer's Associate Director of Safety, with Votroubek, Simms, and Joines. Congratulations to Todd Felty and to all the safety-minded team at Mercer Transportation Company.
